In Faith We Dare to See More Than the Ordinary

There is a great scene in the Tim Allen movie The Santa Clause when Allen is taken to the elf village in the North Pole. When there he looks out the window of his room and sees the beautiful elf village with its snow, fairy lights and tiny houses. He turns to the thirteen-hundred-year-old elf, who looks ten, and says, "I can't believe all this." The little girl elf smiles and says to him: "Some people believe because they see. Others see because they believe. Believing is seeing." It's just such a great philosophical and faith moment. We are a people who see so much more because we believe. For us believing what we can see is just so ordinary, pedestrian, and dull. Faith opens new horizons. To have faith is not opposed to human life, it is an essential part of human life. It is part of what makes us truly, and fully, human.

Faith is a gift from God that allows us to see beyond the obvious, to realize the impossible, to live outside the ordinary -- the here and the now, the merely material. Faith opens up a world that is above beautiful. It offers a deeper life, gives meaning, adds joy, provides a vision, and generates a hope that the world itself cannot give. Faith offers a beauty beyond our imaging and dreaming; it gives us a proper understanding of humanity and creation. Faith gives us a sense of being that is tremendous in its scope and depth. Faith offers an invitation to think and see great things, provides a creative and expansive vision of what exists and who it is that made it. Faith beckons us to look further; to step through the shadows and darkness, to see the One who is our Father, our God, the Maker of all.

It is through faith that we see people as more than the material they are made from, the material things they possess, the social status they are assigned by a society that grades and degrades human beings. Through the eyes of faith, the pauper and the prince are equal, through the eyes of faith leper and priest share a common dignity, through the eyes of faith all people are brothers and sisters, through the eyes of faith the unborn, the born, the young and the elderly share a common dignity and right to life, and through the eyes of faith we share a common Father in God and a common destiny in heaven.

This vision is truly human, because only human beings have faith. The vision of faith is truly enriching because without it, all we have is the material world and the world is just not enough to satisfy the longing of the human heart, the impulses of the human soul, or the longing of our desire. A life without faith is ordinary, limited, it lacks vision, it fails to dream because it fails to believe. Faith gives color to human existence. Without faith it is all dull.

As we begin a new year together let it be about renewal, for us personally, as a parish and as the Church. Through faith let us once again find our center, our meaning for being, and recapture our confidence in the Gospel and in the message and person of Jesus Christ. Let us believe that the Gospel really brings life, joy, and salvation. Faith offers a vision to humanity and society that life is not a burden, but a grace; not a lie but a truth; and faith is the way to life itself. This year let us step out beyond the darkness into the light and life of God. This is first and foremost a call to a personal renewal of faith and communion with God from which a new joy and hope will spring forth.

When we have faith we follow stars.
Victory through Faith.
