Maive Smith
Age 13; St. Joe's Regional Jr Hi; Manchester

I believe that Pro-Life does not deny a woman's 'choice'. It is stated in The Declaration of Independence that all people have the right to life. Abortion can take away this right and even though someone might not have the money or time to take care of a child, there are many different organizations that can help. Pro-Life is one of these. On their website there is a lot of information regarding many issues. You can get advice from others who have been in the same situation and find many facts on abortion. According to https://prolifeaction.org/ , 22 percent of all pregnancies, in the United States, end in abortion. I think that even though the parent might not be able care for the child, the baby deserves to have a chance to grow up and have a life of their own. If the parent does not feel responsible enough to take care of the baby, they could put it in a children's home or find another family that will love and take care of the baby.

In 1973, The US Supreme Court decided that a woman has the right to choose abortion under the Fourteenth Amendment. Under the Roe v Wades Law, abortion is legal throughout the entire pregnancy. For some people, reasons for abortion are because having a baby will endanger their lives, they are too young or too old, and they are worried about the health of their baby. Abortion can cause the risk of certain cancers including breast, cervical, ovarian, and liver to increase. Also abortion can harm a woman mentally. Women that have had an abortion have a higher rate of drug and alcohol abuse, suicidal thoughts, abuse towards their children, and divorces.

A question that people might ask about abortion is if we need it to help with an overpopulation problem in the United States. The answer is that overpopulation is not an issue in the United States along with some European and Asian countries. If not for immigration, in the U.S., then we would be faced with a new set of problems regarding not enough people.

  To conclude, I have presented many reasons why abortion is not healthy and good for a person and our world. It is unjust to the baby you are hurting. Abortion is easier for some people but it is no different than taking away a 12-year-old or 60-year-old's life. When our founding fathers wrote the Constitution, they believed that all people should have the right to live. What type of person would we be if we were to take away that right. Not only are we hurting the child when abortion is used, but also the parent(s). They will never be the same person after abortion knowing that they prevented someone to have the experience of life. With all of the things I have mentioned, I hope that people will be more cautious and look into different issues before they decide something that will forever change people's lives.