Capital Expenses

As our buildings continue to age, repairs and replacement of equipment are inevitable. In 2020, we replaced doors in the parish hall, the HVAC in the church, and had repairs made to the parking lot (totaling $75,382.00). This summer, we have to replace the gas lines that feed the parish hall ($19,400). While we are blessed to have money in savings to offset these costs, we ask that you consider donating to the Capital Expense Fund so that we may work to build our savings back up for future expenses. Donate online, use the special envelope in your packet, or drop in offertory basket (please make clear that it is for the Capital Expense Fund. THANK YOU!)

THANK YOU to everyone as you continue to support to the parish during these times of rebuilding! Your contributions help us to continue to move forward and build up our ministries! Please consider Online Giving when contributing to the parish. WeShare Online Giving, gives you the ability to quickly sign up for one-time or recurring offertory giving, second collections, or donations for special projects. Sign up at:

September 27

Perseverance in virtue is more difficult in internal matters than in external. We feel hesitation in submitting when it concerns our intellect, this being the last part of ourselves that we give up. Still, it is necessary to submit our way of thinking to a higher authority. Small as they may be, virtuous acts that are assigned to us are especially valuable.

September 28

I believe in the Holy Spirit; all that God has done He has done through the Holy Spirit. In the same way, He still performs supernatural acts that only faith can perceive. Do you ask me how bread can become the body of Jesus Christ? I answer: The Holy Spirit casts His shadow (as He did upon the Virgin Mary) and performs works that are well beyond what our words and our intelligence can express. Besides, the Holy Spirit inspired Scripture; He is the Teacher of the whole Church!

September 29

Do not change your confessor too readily. When you have chosen one, be faithful in keeping him informed of the state of your conscience on the day selected for your confession, telling him frankly and openly the sins you have committed. From time to time, say every month or two, let him know of any inclinations you may have, even if they are not sinful. For example, do you give way to moments of sadness or ill-humor? Do you frequently take time off from your duties? Do you have a tendency to want your own way? Ask yourself similar questions.

September 30

It sometimes happens that, after we have won many victories over our old enemies, we think we have them completely conquered; instead, they suddenly attack us from another angle, just when we least expect it. Solomon, the wisest man in the world, who had done many outstanding things in his youth, thought he would persevere in virtue for a long time. He seemed to be safe from any danger, yet was surprised by an enemy he feared least. From this fact we learn two things: in the first place, distrust of ourselves, together with holy fear and constant prayer for heavenly assistance; secondly, we should realize that our enemies may be scattered, but not killed.

October 1

What a sad thing it is to see that most people never even bother to think about the reason for their existence, but live as if they believe themselves created only to build houses, plant trees, cultivate the garden, pile up wealth or do frivolous things. Consider your own past life. Say, "Lord, what was I thinking of when I was not thinking of You? Whom did I love when I was not loving You? I should have fed upon the truth, but I glutted myself with vanity and served the world instead of serving the truth."

October 2

Francis de Sales had a great devotion to his guardian angel, and not only his own but those of his friends and enemies. When he had a discussion with Protestants, he silently exorcized the demon that possessed them and invoked their guardian angels. When he was absent from his diocese, he entrusted it in a special way to the care of its guardian angel, and never forgot to greet the angels in various kingdoms, provinces and parishes which he visited. In the confessional he often invoked the penitent's guardian angel. Even in his writings it can be seen how he recommended to his clients devotion to their angel.
