St. Robert of Molesme

St. Robert was born in 1027 near Troyes, Champagne, France, of noble birth. At age 17 he entered the Benedictine Abbey Montier-la-Celle, quickly rising to be prior of the abbey. He was made Abbot of Saint-Michel-de-Tonnerre in 1070, but considered it to have lax standards and the monks were quarrelsome, so he returned to Montiers-la-Celle. The same year he was placed over the priory Prior of Saint-Ayeul Abbey, which was connected to Montiers-la-Celle.

In 1075, in an attempt to return to a simpler form of Benedictine life requested by a group of hermits from the forests around Colan, France, he helped found the monastery at Molesme, Burgundy. The group, especially Robert, gained a reputation for piety. It is because of this reputation that in 1082 St. Bruno of Cologne came to Robert seeking advice. He lived with Robert's community for a time before going on to found the Grande Chartreuse, the first Carthusian monastery. The growing reputation led to bequests of money, which led to an increase in size of the monastery, which led to internal difficulties, and suddenly there were many brothers that objected to the severe life practiced by the founders. Robert twice left to live on his own, but was ordered back to his position by the pope.

In early 1098 Robert, Saint Stephen Harding, Saint Alberic of Cîteaux and 18 other monks left Molesme, and on March 21, they founded the monastery of Cîteaux near Dijon, France, with the goal of living strictly by the Benedictine Rule, strict vows of poverty, and frequent retreats; Robert served as the first abbot. However, with conditions deteriorating at the Molesme house he was re-assigned as abbot there in 1100 with a mandate to reform. The monks agreed to submit entirely to his interpretation of the Rule of St. Benedict. Molesme became a major center for the Benedictines under his tutelage. St. Albéric was made successor abbot at Cîteaux, with St. Stephen Harding as prior. St. Robert lived and worked in Molesme the rest of his life.

St. Robert is traditionally considered one of the founders of the Cistercians, the reform that developed at Cîteaux.

Can we trust the Gospels? Were these accounts written centuries later or by individuals with firsthand knowledge of Jesus? What about the so-called "lost gospels," such as the Gospel of Thomas? Get the answers to these questions and many more! Join us as we go through the video Bible study lecture series by Dr. Brant Pitre, The Case for Jesus. In this series, Dr. Pitre examines why the Gospels are reliable sources of information and looks at the historical evidence that backs up this claim.

Sacred Heart School News

We hope everyone had a nice Holy Week and Easter and was blessed by the beautiful services we had at Sacred Heart Church.

On Tuesday, the Pre-K class treated the seventh and eighth-grade students to pizza and popsicles as a thank-you for helping with the Pre-K students in Mass every Tuesday and Friday.

Our soccer team played two away games this week. We played Leoma on Tuesday and were defeated 3-1. On Thursday, the team played very well but lost to Waynesboro when they scored with about two minutes left and won 3-2. We have our last two home games this week on Monday, April 17, and Tuesday, April 18. We invite everyone to bring a chair and come to our new soccer field to watch these students play.

On Thursday, we had Career/Vocations Day and had twelve very diverse presenters. The students learned a lot, and the presenters did an excellent job explaining their roles in the workforce. Thank you to everyone who participated, and a special thanks to Mrs. Beverly Murrey who organized Career Day.

Spring pictures arrived this week and were sent home by the students. Mac Brown Photography did wonderful work, as always.

First Communion will be next Sunday, April 23, at 10:30 Mass. Ten children will receive Jesus for the first time. We appreciate the work Mrs. Samantha Benefield, Mrs. Jessi Montgomery, and Ms. Cheyenne Hill do to prepare the children.

Have a blessed Easter season, and thank you for your continued prayers and support.
