As an Early Childhood teacher, I believe it is important to help children discover the joy of learning through play. In order to assist each child on their learning journey, students will have a variety of activities that coincide with what we will be learning in the classroom. For example, playing alphabet or number bingo, using playdough to create letters, numbers or shapes, and other fun games.

I strive to help children reach their fullest potential by providing them the tools and resources to grow as an individual, as well as together with others. We will focus on the following social skills: learning the difference between right and wrong, using words to express feelings or needs, sharing or taking turns, playing alone or together with other children, and becoming independent. I believe these social skills are important for children to learn to respect, gain independence, and how to cooperate with each other. Together we work towards building a community with one another and growing with our Catholic faith.
