Visitors to the Shrine are struck by its beauty and grandeur, often commenting on the atmosphere of peace that pervades the grounds and the ethos of prayer and reverence exuded by everything from the artwork to the architecture.

The Shrine itself, both church and monastery, are modeled on the great Italian churches of the 13th century. The piazza through which pilgrims walk before entering the sanctuary is a standard of Italian architecture, allowing the faithful time and space to collect themselves in preparation for the experience of prayer and sacred liturgy.

Everything, from the floors to the vaulted ceilings, from the stained glass windows to the monstrance, and from the sanctuary doors to the bells that call all to prayer, was designed to turn the mind to prayer and adoration of the Presence contained within the Shrine. Catholicism is a faith rich in appreciation for the material world and for created things, and her churches are replete with tangible reminders of the glory of God and the awe which appropriately fills the soul called to His Presence. The Shrine of the Most Blessed Sacrament is no different. Here, the tangible meets the reality of the invisible in a celebration of God, of His Presence and of the glory of His creation.

Yes! I would like to join my parish family on this trip!
