Dear Brothers and Sisters in Christ,

Jean Paul Sartre, the (in)famous existential philosopher, is perhaps best known for his quote, "Hell is other people." What Sartre said was fueled by his great cynicism born out of his atheism. If we do not believe that a loving God creates us and that we are to love God and neighbor as ourselves, then this is a great summary of life, because other people's wills often conflict with our own. It is, however, not true and it is very sad that many people have this as their worldview.

However, Thomas a Kempis reminds us that Christ teaches us to view others, and even their faults, in a very different and more positive way. I will let him explain:

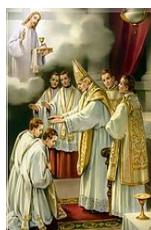

"Until God ordains otherwise, a man ought to bear patiently whatever he cannot correct in himself and in others. Consider it better thus – perhaps to try your patience and to test you, for without such patience and trial your merits are of little account. Nevertheless, under such difficulties you should pray that God would consent to help you bear them calmly.

If, after being admonished once or twice, a person does not amend, do not argue with him but commit the whole matter to God that His will and honor may be furthered in all His servants, for God knows well how to turn evil to good. Try to bear patiently with the defects and infirmities of others, whatever they may be, because you also have many a fault which others must endure.

If you cannot make yourself what you would wish to be, how can you bend others to your will? We want them to be perfect, yet we do not correct our own faults. We wish them to be severely corrected, yet we will not correct ourselves. Their great liberty displeases us, yet we would not be denied what we ask. We would have them bound by laws, yet we will allow ourselves to restrain from nothing. Hence, it is clear how seldom we think of others as we do of ourselves.

If all were perfect, what should we have to suffer from others for God's sake? But God has so ordained, that we may learn to bear with one another's burdens, for there is no man without fault, no man without burden, no man sufficient to himself nor wise enough. Hence we must support one another, console one another, mutually help, counsel, and advise, for the measure of every man's virtue is best revealed in time of adversity – adversity that does not weaken a man but rather shows what he is."

Peace to you,
-Fr. Chris

Remember Fr. Chris in your prayers as he will be celebrating the 15th Anniversary of his Ordination on May 31. Please show him your appreciation for his Priesthood.

Prayer for our Military: O Prince of peace, we humbly ask your protection for all our men and women in military service. Give them unflinching courage to defend with honor, dignity and devotion, the rights of all who are imperiled by injustice and evil. Be their rock, their shield, and their stronghold and let them draw their strength from you. Please keep all of our military in your prayers. Veterans and current military need our prayers.
