Dear Brothers and Sisters in Christ,

Much of the Christian life is a discipline. This is because we are called to be disciples of the Lord Jesus, who showed great discipline in His own life here on earth, and submitted His own will to that of the Father. One of the greatest disciplines is to forego earthly delights and seek the heavenly life. In order to do this, Thomas`a Kempis tells us to live with our earthly end in mind. Therefore, he offers an extended meditation on death. This is not for the sake of being morbid, but that we are always ready to meet the Lord and not taken off guard by the sudden end of our earthly life, which is the time for us to make our decision for God or for the world and its pleasures.

"Very soon your life here will end; consider, then, what may be in store for you elsewhere. Today we live; tomorrow we die and are quickly forgotten. Oh, the dullness and hardness of a heart which looks only to the present instead of preparing for that which to come!

Therefore, in every deed and every thought, act as though you were to die this very day. If you had a good conscience, you would not fear death very much. It is better to avoid sin than to fear death. If you are not prepared today, how will you be prepared tomorrow? Tomorrow is an uncertain day; how do you know you will have a tomorrow?

What good is it to live a long life when we amend that life so little? Indeed, a long life does not always benefit us, but on the contrary, frequently adds to our guilt. Would that in this world we had lived well throughout one single day. Many count up the years they have spent in religion but find their lives made little holier. If it is so terrifying to die, it is nevertheless possible that to live longer is more dangerous. Blessed is he who keeps the moment of death ever before his eyes and prepares for it every day.

... In the morning, consider that you may not live till evening, and when evening comes do not dare to promise yourself the dawn. Be always ready, therefore, and so live that death will never take you unprepared. Many die suddenly and unexpectedly, for in the unexpected hour the Son of God will come. When that last moment arrives you will begin to have a quite different opinion of the life that is now entirely past and you will regret very much that you were so careless and remiss."

St. Benedict put it rather succinctly with his famous line, "Remember, O man, your death." Our real desire as Christians is to meet the Lord with all the saints in the heavenly kingdom. Therefore, let us run this race of life in faith and confidence!

Peace to you,
-Fr. Chris

Prayer for our Military:

O Prince of peace, we humbly ask your protection for all our men and women in military service. Give them unflinching courage to defend with honor, dignity and devotion, the rights of all who are imperiled by injustice and evil. Be their rock, their shield, and their stronghold and let them draw their strength from you. Please keep all of our military in your prayers. Veterans and current military need our prayers.
