“Trusting Abandon” by Joel Padgett

Recently I picked up the spiritual classic “Abandonment to Divine Providence” by Fr Jean-Pierre de Caussade, SJ. I had read it before, but—as with all the great classics—there is far more wisdom than what can be gained in going through it just once. In this work, Fr Caussade guides us along the path of holiness in our ordinary lives and helps us to discover God in the midst of the moments and circumstances of daily life.

At the heart of the matter, Caussade teaches that “holiness consists in one thing alone, namely, fidelity to God’s plan.” He unequivocally affirms, “This fidelity is equally within everyone’s capacity.” Some 200 years later, Vatican II affirmed the same truth in chapter 5 of Lumen Gentium: “In the Church, everyone... is called to holiness. [...] They must follow in [Christ’s] footsteps and conform themselves to His image seeking the will of the Father in all things. They must devote themselves with all their being to the glory of God and the service of their neighbor.”

Fr Caussade goes on to write of two dimensions of holiness: active and passive. The active dimension regards our efforts to correspond to God. Thus, “The active practice of fidelity consists in accomplishing the duties imposed on us by the general laws of God and the Church, and by the particular state of life which we have embraced.” The passive aspect focuses more upon God’s action. Therefore, “Passive fidelity consists in the loving acceptance of all that God sends us at every moment.”

In following this path of holiness that winds along the ups and downs—as well as the twists and turns—of everyday life, the journey soon leads to the discovery of God himself in the midst of daily life. For “the shadow beneath which the power of God conceals itself in order to bring Jesus Christ to souls, is the duty, attraction, or cross which every moment brings.” In fact, we might be surprised by just how ordinary these extraordinary graces may appear to be on the surface: “What treasures of grace are contained in each of these moments underneath the commonplace appearance of the events that fill them? Outwardly, these events are no different from those which happen to everyone, but the interior invisible element discerned by faith is nothing less than God himself performing great works.”

Undoubtedly, the hustle, bustle and constant noise of society make it difficult to set aside moments for silence and reflection. Consequently, it is easy to become a “surface dweller,” leaving our interior lives largely vacated. In his Confessions, St Augustine states that God is “more inward than [our] most inward part.” Yet, before his conversion, St Augustine notes, “You [God] were there before me, but I had departed from myself. I could not even find myself, much less you.”

Without silence and reflection, our gaze begins to penetrate less and less beyond the surface, allowing the limits of the material to function as blinders to any sort of spiritual “in-sight.” Yet, without this spiritual sense, it is impossible to find God in all things, not only in people, places and objects, but also in the “thing” that is time itself. For it is in the here and now of the present moment that we are able to encounter God. Caussade refers to this as the “sacrament” of the present moment.

Once we discover God hidden in “the duty, attraction, or cross which every moment brings,” our response must be that of trusting abandon, which is an active “handing over of the reins” of our life to God. It is an attitude of receptivity, not of resignation, and is akin to the confidence of a child entrusting himself to be carried in his loving parent’s arms to wherever his parent chooses. Likewise, it is not a once and done decision, but a deliberate, conscious choice that must be renewed repeatedly. More than in our own successes and failures, its strength lies in God’s fidelity and love, which enable us to cry out, “Jesus, I trust in you.”

St. Meinrad Weekend Feb. 22 & 23

For many years, our Diocese has benefited from the ministry of those formed at Saint Meinrad Archabbey, Seminary & School of Theology. Feb. 22 & 23, our parish will learn more about their important work from a monk of St. Meinrad.

In our archdiocese, 49 active and retired priests, 52 permanent deacons, and 344 lay ministers attended Saint Meinrad. In addition, countless high school students were formed in faith and prepared for liturgical ministry through Saint Meinrad's "One Bread, One Cup" program. After the weekend, Archabbot Kurt Stasiak, OSB, will send a letter asking for your financial support to continue their efforts. Please consider partnering in their work.

As always, please continue to pray for more vocations to the priesthood, diaconate, vowed religious life, and lay ministry. To learn more about St. Meinrad & to submit prayer requests, text "Prayer" to 800-682-0988 or saintmeinrad.edu/prayer.

Diocesan Pastoral Council

The Diocese of Evansville's newly reconstituted Diocesan Pastoral Council had its first meeting on Feb. 1, at the Catholic Center in Evansville. The DPC is an advisory group to Bishop Siegel, and is made up of three lay members from each deanery and one representative each from the priests, deacons, consecrated religious, & young adults of the diocese. This gathering served as an orientation for the members.

Following Mass, Bishop Siegel opened the meeting by sharing his vision for the DPC. The Bishop noted that the Council, like other consultative bodies in the Diocese, is to bring together a broad perspective on needs, concerns and plans that involve and impact the whole diocese. Rather than discussing issues of a specific parish, school, office or community, it will look to broader pastoral trends and possible areas of initiative. For that reason, the members of the Council represent a cross-section of the diocese, not just geographically; it is a diverse group of men and women representing various age groups, backgrounds, vocations and professions.

During the meeting, Diocesan Vice-Chancellor Dominic Faraone provided a presentation that explored the DPC Constitution and By-Laws. Diocesan Chancellor and COO Tim McGuire followed with a session reviewing the diocesan administrative and pastoral offices, consultative bodies to the Bishop and diocesan activities. The meeting concluded with final comments from the Bishop, an opportunity for a Q&A, and recommendations for future agenda items. The next meeting is scheduled for May 9.

Inclement Weather Policy

Diocesan Policy: Report and Inform

The Diocese of Evansville has in place a policy that requires that any allegation of child abuse must be reported to civil authorities. If an allegation involves the sexual abuse of a minor by diocesan personnel, the Victim Assistance Coordinator must also be informed. Sexual misconduct violates human dignity and the mission of the church. The spiritual well-being of all victims, their families, and others in the community is of particular concern to the church.

Report child abuse

Every allegation of child abuse must be reported to Child Protection Services, an agency of Indiana state government. CPS Toll-free: 800-800-5556. Local law enforcement: 9-1-1.

Report and inform

In the event of an allegation of sexual abuse of a minor (a person under 18) by diocesan personnel, report the allegation to authorities, and inform the Victim Assistance Coordinator for the diocese: Toll-free: 866-200-3004, Local: 812-490-9565.
