Living Catholic in the 808 A Metaphor for Sharing the Faith

Jesus' experience with the woman with the hemorrhage in today's Gospel is a great metaphor of what it is like when we share our faith.

First, we are like Jesus, walking through our days, living our life. As lay people, we are called to be "leaven in the world." And, like Jesus, we begin this by being open to whatever life brings us at any given moment.

Second, like Jesus, we do not know who we will encounter and what will be needed from us. Like Jesus, we share our faith simply by how we react to someone bumping into us in a crowd. We share our faith when strangers see how we treat our family and friends who question us in public places. And we definitely share our faith when something significant happens and we tell the other person. "Go in peace."

Finally, we must never forget that, like Jesus, we can trust that the Holy Spirit will work through us. The power will go out from us too, even if we don't always know it is happening!

NOTE ON STEWARDSHIP

Why am I here? What am I going to do with my life? The way you answer these questions determines the way you look upon your responsibility for stewardship of your time, your talent, and your material possessions. Stewardship means: Management for others.

Reflection

Jesus set out to save people, not to win arguments. Today, his compassionate words and actions reveal the deepest truth of his life and of God's life, too. For God did not make death or desire the destruction of the living. Interestingly, in the Divine Comedy, Dante pictures the very depths of hell as ice, not fire, for the cold, white paralysis of ice so aptly depicts the hellish state of lovelessness. Jesus chooses death's opposite—the warmth and light that draws us as surely as a lost child is drawn to the porch light, as the ship on the storm-tossed sea searches for the beacon.

The way of compassion so clearly enunciated as the ideal in the Book of Wisdom is enfleshed in the generous companionship of Jesus as he walks with desperate Jairus and is accosted by an equally desperate woman who pushes herself forward in such an unseemly manner. Jesus does not stand on ceremony; he does not claim special privileges. He leans toward Jairus, toward the woman, toward the child. This is how he wins hearts. This is how heart speaks to heart.

And this is how Paul exhorts his fellow Christians at Corinth. Actually, he's soliciting contributions from the richer church for the poorer ones. They are rich in faith and discourse and knowledge. He wants them to abound in charity, and he has a good idea about how they might demonstrate that charity.
