THE RESTORATION

How do we understand what is happening now in the United States? Almost everyone is asking that question and searching for answers. Here are a few thoughts.

We've been living for about 60 years in a time when just about anything goes. There has been an extreme focus on individual rights and freedoms. What used to be illegal is now legal and is often a source of government revenue. People have been encouraged to make decisions based on feelings and emotions, rather than reason, logic and a basic sense of morality.

Among our biggest current problems is the instability of the American family. Family breakdown is a very common element in what we know about mental health problems and inclinations toward crime and violence.

It's very unclear what beliefs are commonly shared in today's America. Social media has been a significant factor in people getting bad information and making decisions based on unreliable sources. Will AI be a benefit or compound the trouble? Is now a good time to escalate its use?

Perhaps now is a good time to put things on pause and make some serious decisions. The theme I propose for us now is restoration, sorting out what has been lost that needs to be restored, in family life, in faith, in moral decision making, in doing what is objectively right instead of wherever our emotions take us. In asking what we've lost and how we can get it back.

*"Restore us once more, God our savior...
Please give us life again, that your people may rejoice in you." Psalm 85:5, 7*
