THE CHURCH AND AI

Pope Leo XIV and other leaders in the Church have expressed concerns about AI that all of us should be considering. The Pope has compared the impact of AI to the industrial revolution in the 19th Century.

Pope Leo has said "Be careful that your use of AI does not limit your truly human growth. Use it in such a way that, if it disappeared tomorrow, you would still know how to think, create and act on your own...AI can never replace the gift that you are to the world."

Potential negative implications of AI include the extreme isolation of people, the dehumanizing of relationships and culture, and the datafication of everything. AI is very likely to replace many important human functions, which could compromise critical thinking skills. As creatures made in God's image, we have to retain the abilities to reason, make judgments and exercise basic human freedoms. Machines should never undermine the importance of love and compassion for others, of moral decision-making and of human creativity and understanding.

AI can never replace or substitute for the wisdom of Jesus Christ and the Catholic Church. It can never substitute for the wisdom, guidance and power of the Holy Spirit. There is an important, positive function for AI in many areas of life. But the Church and the Pope have cautioned us to be very thoughtful about its dangers and limitations.
