

Haiti – House #165 The Fouyol Family

Patricia Fouyol and her husband Getro Laguerre live with their daughter, Bediaina, Patricia's aunt and a cousin in the place you see in the before picture. Getro, because of no work available to him in the Jeremie area, was forced to go to Port-Au-Prince to get a job to take care of his family. (He works now as a security agent.) Patricia is helping to take care of Bediaina and the other family members living with them by making and selling pastries along with other foodstuffs. They all attend Our Lady of the Assumption church regularly where Bediaina is an active member of the catholic youth group "KIRO". The family is so happy that HMI has been able to build a home where they can live with dignity, security and pride. They send their love and deepest appreciation to all who have helped in any way to bring about this miracle in their lives.
