

Haiti – House #200 The Laventure Family

Marc Henry Laventure is a school teacher and farmer. His wife Adeline helps with the family garden, selling a few items such as cookies and candies and fruits and vegetables that they can produce along the roadside and in the Jeremie market. . They have three children. One of them, Charlene, is a sweet little girl that attends St Brigitte school. Their life has been particularly tougher since hurricane Matthew destroyed their house in October of 2016. They have been living in the shanty you see in the “before” picture that they were able to piece together from scrap tin that they could find. It is with a great joy they have welcomed the news of Haiti Mission's decision to build them a decent house. They send their heartfelt prayers and thanksgiving to all who have helped in any way to make this miracle come true in their lives.
