

House # 40 - Sadila

Sadila is a poor woman who is a survivor of the terrible earthquake of January 12th, 2010. Being originally from Jeremie, she was one of the original evacuees from Port-Au-Prince to arrive after that terrible event. She had nine children at the time and lost six of them in the quake. She has been existing in this 150 square foot primitive house built of banana leaves and palm fronds with two of her daughters and four grand children. As you can see, her situation speaks for itself. Since she has returned to Numero Deux, she has been a regular member of the prayer group "Fanmy Bondye", constantly praying in a way that only a mother who has lost so much can, that God can help her, her friends and her country. She is so grateful to Almighty God for everything He has done and is doing for her. She sends her heartfelt thanks to all the HMI family that she has been selected this Christmas to receive a decent place to live in order to raise her family. This upcoming year, on the anniversary of the day she lost so much, she will be somewhat consoled and comforted by the fact that her family is now safe, secure and can live with dignity in a beautiful new home.
