Dear Friends:

Two weeks ago, about a hundred parishioners gathered for a Town Hall meeting in order to do some visioning for the future of our school. Since I've been here at St. Pascal's—and for a long time prior to that—St. Pascal's School has operated on a year-to-year shoestring budget, a situation in which we have never been able really to step back and to imagine just what we want our focus and mission to be, because we have always been so consumed with just making sure that the doors could stay open for the following school year. The financial support from the parish to our school during these last several years has been extraordinary, which is a testament to the value we place on having this important ministry in place both for "our own" kids and for the children of our neighborhood and from neighboring parishes. Each year we welcome more and more non-parishioner and non-Catholic students to our school, many of whom come from families that are very economically challenged. I am very proud and grateful for that. A wise church leader (and I've heard this quote attributed to several different people!) once said, "We open our school doors to students not because they are Catholic but because we are." I couldn't agree more. If we aren't reaching out to the people who actually live in our community, whether school or otherwise, then why exactly are we here?

That said, there has emerged a broad consensus among our parish leadership, councils, trustees, and me, that our current way of financing our school is not sustainable in the long run. We are very fortunate at this particular moment to have a several-month window of breathing space in which to consider some other forms of governance and financing for the school. As I mentioned in this space last week, we have our finances secured for the rest of this school year and for next year as well. This is the time to be asking how best to ensure that this vital ministry of ours remains excellent and stable. Last month our parish council voted unanimously to endorse a "two pronged" strategy for simultaneously studying options for our future. One prong is to pursue the "development model," which we have been attempting to adapt over the course of the past several years. This involves cultivating relationships with interested partners who will join us in contributing their wisdom and resources (financial and otherwise) to see that St. Pascal's School remains vital under its current governing School Board structure. This will reduce the degree to which the school is dependent upon parish support, which will, in turn, allow the parish to direct some resources to other under-served ministry needs, particularly in pastoral care.

The second prong is to pursue the possibility of a values-based charter school housed at St. Pascal's. Strictly speaking this could not be a Catholic school, but it could be a school that is created in the image and likeness of St. Pascal's missionary convictions and reflective of the kind of community we want to see sustained and fostered in our building. Under this model, we'd be able to "surround" the school day with religious education, faith formation, liturgy etc. in a manner that we can decide. And we'd have a reliable (public) funding source that would allow us to focus on quality education rather than mere survival. I have asked Anne Weyandt, our long-time parishioner, to head up a work group of several parishioners and community leaders to explore whether this may be a viable and desirable option for us in the future. We won't know the answer to that question until the group does its work, but I am grateful to Anne and her team that they have said yes to the task. The purpose of last week's Town Hall was to hear what our parish community thought about the "two prongs," and to offer opportunity for feedback. I was encouraged by the honest and respectful exchange of ideas. It will not be the last time that we will have a chance to gather to talk about it.

Both prongs are being investigated right now. It is hoped that by December it will become clear which of them may hold the best promise for our long-term success. If you have opinions to share, know that I and parish leaders are open to hearing them.

Social Justice and Caring Committee We Care Campaign June 2-3

Next weekend, St. Pascal's parish will gather the loose change and bills from the collection and donate them to the three options chosen by the committee for its summer projects:

Option 1: Holy Family Surgery Center at Nuestrros Pequeños Hermanos Orphanage in Honduras

This surgery center is spearheaded by Dr. Peter Daly, an orthopedic surgeon from Minnesota. The center provides same day surgical procedures for underprivileged patients who otherwise could not afford surgery.

Option 2: Progressive Baptist Church Fishes and Loaves Food Shelf

This food shelf is located within Progressive Baptist Church at 1501 Burns Avenue in St. Paul. It provides emergency food items to anybody in need. No residency or parish memberships are required.

Option 3: The Listening House

The Listening House is a St. Paul inner-city drop-in center that provides hospitality and practical assistance to disadvantaged, homeless and lonely people.

We encourage you to consider making a personal contribution as well, using the envelope provided in the packet of envelopes sent by the parish every other month or found on the tables located by the doors leading into the church. If you prefer to give to one or more of these charities, please indicate this by marking the appropriate option(s) on the envelope and your contributions will be distributed as requested. Any unmarked contributions will be divided equally among the three options. Thank you for your generosity.

Heart Questions Signs of God's Love

Moses said to the people, "For ask now about former ages, long before your own, ever since the day that God created human beings on the earth; ask from one end of heaven to the other: has anything so great as this ever happened or has its like ever been heard of?"

Deuteronomy 4:32

Adults: What signs of God's love have you witnessed in your life?

Kids: How can you be a sign of God's love to others this week?
