FAMILY PERSPECTIVES

Fifth Sunday of Lent

In today's gospel, Jesus raises Lazarus from the dead. When Lazarus came out of the tomb, Jesus instructed his family and friends to untie the bandages that bound him. God still depends on us to free others so they might live. Who in your family is tied up by pride or entombed by grief or resentment? Hear Jesus' call to "unbind him" with care and compassion.

The two "Sanctus Lamps" burn this week for John Bircher and Katie & Frank Smerdell

Dear Parishioners,

Q: Why are crosses and images covered during the last weeks of Lent?

A: The duration of such veiling varies from place to place. The custom in many places is to veil from before first vespers or the Vigil Mass of the Fifth Sunday of Lent while others limit this veiling from after the Mass of the Lord's Supper on Holy Thursday. In some places images and statues are actually removed from the church and not simply veiled, especially after Holy Thursday. Crosses are unveiled after the Good Friday ceremonies. All other images are unveiled shortly before the Mass of the Easter Vigil. Neither the Stations of the Cross nor stained glass windows are ever veiled.

The bishops' conference may decide if the veiling during this period should be obligatory within its territory. The veils are usually made of lightweight purple cloth without any decoration.

The custom of veiling the images during the last two weeks of Lent hails from the former liturgical calendar the Fifth Sunday of Lent as well as on Palm Sunday, Tuesday and Wednesday of Holy Week, and Good Friday. For this reason the period following the Fifth Sunday of Lent was called Passiontide. A remnant of this custom is the obligatory use of the first Preface of the Lord's Passion during the Fifth Week of Lent. "The custom of veiling crosses and images ... has much to commend it in terms of religious psychology, because it helps us to concentrate on the great essentials of Christ's work of Redemption."

Although this is true, the historical origin of this practice lies elsewhere. It probably derives from a custom, noted in Germany from the ninth century, of extending a large cloth before the altar from the beginning of Lent. This cloth, called the "Hungertuch" (hunger cloth), hid the altar entirely from the faithful during Lent and was not removed until during the reading of the Passion on Holy Wednesday at the words "the veil of the temple was rent in two."

Some authors say there was a practical reason for this practice insofar as the often-illiterate faithful needed a way to know it was Lent. Others, however, maintain that it was a remnant of the ancient practice of public penance in which the penitents were ritually expelled from the church at the beginning of Lent. After the ritual of public penance fell into disuse — but the entire congregation symbolically entered the order of penitents by receiving ashes on Ash Wednesday — it was no longer possible to expel them from the church. Rather, the altar or "Holy of Holies" was shielded from view until they were reconciled to God at Easter.

For analogous motives, later on in the Middle Ages, the images of crosses and saints were also covered from the start of Lent. The rule of limiting this veiling to Passiontide came later and does not appear until the publication of the Bishops' Ceremonial of the 17th century. After the Second Vatican Council there were moves to abolish all veiling of images, but the practice survived, although in a mitigated practice.

Veiling of crosses during all of Lent may have been a common practice in the Middle Ages, but it has been restricted to Passiontide for several centuries. Hence, the altar and processional cross is not veiled and, indeed, its use is implied in the rubrics for the solemn Masses of Palm Sunday and Holy Thursday.

Regarding the removal of holy water that some parishes do, or used to do; The Congregation for Divine Worship and the Sacraments recently responded to a similar question (3/14/03) giving a clear answer: "This Dicastery is able to respond that the removing of Holy Water from the fonts during the season of Lent is not permitted, in particular, for two reasons: "1. The liturgical legislation in force does not foresee this innovation, which in addition to being 'praeter legem' is contrary to a balanced understanding of the season of Lent, which though truly being a season of penance, is also a season rich in the symbolism of water and baptism, constantly evoked in liturgical texts." And 2. "The encouragement of the Church that the faithful avail themselves frequently of the sacraments is to be understood to apply also to the season of Lent. The 'fast' and 'abstinence' which the faithful embrace in this season does not extend to abstaining from the sacraments or sacramentals of the Church.

WEEKLY Steps for a Grace-Filled LENT

Prayer, Fasting, and Almsgiving are the "steps" we take as we journey through the season of Lent. Lent is a chance to take a deep look at our lives and correct the missteps that have caused us to wander off course.

Week 5 Fasting

Not all fasting is related to food. This week, think about the things you take for granted: long hot showers, social media, TV, web-surfing. Go without some of those luxuries, and use the extra time in prayer or the service of others.

Grade students that competed in this year's Science Fair did an outstanding job. We could not be more proud of them! Special congratulations and academic accolades to Joe Conti,

Veronica Lynch, and Dylan Feisthamel. These students attended the Western Reserve District Science Fair at the University of Akron on March 18th. Dylan received an Excellent rating. Joe and Veronica received Superior ratings and will be attending the Ohio State Science Fair in Columbus on May 12th. On a special note, Veronica received the B-Wiser Institute Award from the College of Wooster Chemistry Department. We are proud of our 7th Grade students and their academic accolades!

As promised, we already have some updates on our "X – S.T.R.E.A.M." learning initiative.

Miss Fearon's 4th Grade class has taken on a problem presented to them by our counselor, Ms. Boutros. It seems that some students aren't always included during outdoor recess play. These students investigated, collaborated, and wrote solution proposals. After much consideration, these students will be procuring a bench, creating a unique appearance for it, and presenting the purpose and importance of this new feature for recess to the rest of the school. This most certainly is an example of honing the skills required for critical thinking in the 21st century!

Mrs. Wilson's 6th Graders were recently presented with a problem from her niece in college. The students were challenged with explaining why the 10 Commandments are still impactful on the life of today's young people. Developing a solution will allow students to utilize their individual areas of expertise and knowledge in unique ways.

Keep watching for more updates of our "X – S.T.R.E.A.M." problem based learning!

Mrs. Carrie DePasquale, Principal
