THE VOICE OF THE SHEPHERD

It would be easy to follow Jesus if he were physically present here with us, healing the sick and curing the lame. Who wouldn't leave everything to do that? But it's much more difficult to be attentive to the voice of Jesus after the resurrection. And that is precisely what the gospel today requires of us. We are to listen closely amidst the noise and sound of our world and discern the voice of the Good Shepherd. What is he calling us to do? Where does he want us to go? We would like to follow him, but how to hear his voice?

When we speak do we sound more like we are echoing the gospel or syndicated TV or radio shows? Are we following Christ, attuned to his voice in Scripture? Or are we more closely attuned to the culture, knowing the voice of the more popular media or talking heads? How we speak and how we act tell us more about who we are ultimately following. On this fourth weekend of Easter it is good to pause and reflect on our path.

Whose voice do we follow?
