“Gird your loins and light your lamps and be like servants who wait their master’s return from a wedding, ready to open immediately when he comes and knocks. Blessed are those servants whom the master finds vigilant on his arrival. Amen, I say to you, he will gird himself, have them recline at table, and proceed to wait on them. .” Luke 12:35-37

Dear Friends in Christ,

We continue our journey through the Year of the Eucharist and we continue discovering anew how we can recognize the presence Jesus is in our life, and in our faith. This coming week we will also celebrate the Feast of the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin Mother. She is the bearer of the Lord, his Mother, whom Jesus has entrusted to us and us to her. As we continue to grow as a family of God, I thought it would be nice for us to learn about the presence of the BVM in our diocese as a patroness of our Cathedral, Our Lady of the Perpetual Help.

The devotion to Our Mother of Perpetual Help began in a story about a good mother and a bad dream, an episode, in young Jesus’ life. One day the Christ Child was frightened by the terrifying vision of two angels showing him the instruments of the Passion. He ran to his mother for reassurance, almost losing his sandal on the way (as the traditional picture records). Safely enfolded in her arms, his hands are turned palms down into his mother’s, illustrating that the graces of redemption are in her keeping.

This story has stayed alive thanks to its picture, icon-style, that is so familiar. The original rests on the main altar of the shrine of the same name on the Via Merulana in Rome. The five markings are names, or titles, in Greek. At the top: Mother of God. The marking over the M is an old sign for the Holy Spirit. The wavy line over the ThU is an old mark for an abbreviation. Over the Christ child is “Jesus Christ.” The angels are designated as the archangels Michael and Gabriel.

The odyssey of this picture is a story in itself. Explanations of its origin abound. One predictable legend has it that it was painted by Saint Luke, but its creator and its age are actually unknown. Some say it was venerated for centuries in Constantinople as a miraculous icon and that it was destroyed by the Turks in 1453.

The story continues that a copy of that work was made in tempera on hard nutwood. This painting came from Crete, where it had been venerated, to Rome in 1490. It was owned by a private family until a little girl of the household had an apparition in which the Blessed Mother told her that she wished to have the icon placed in a church, specifically “between my beloved church of St. Mary Major’s and that of my beloved son, St. John of Lateran.”

On March 27, 1499, the icon was moved to the Church of St. Matthew, between St. Mary Major and St. John Lateran churches. There it remained for three centuries, becoming a pilgrimage shrine. In 1789, the old church was demolished in a war, but the icon was saved by the Augustinian priests in charge of St. Matthew’s who took it with them to their new quarters in the city.

In 1855, the Redemptorist priests came to Rome and built a church in honor of their founder, Saint Alphonsus de Liguori, on the site of the old St. Matthew’s. A Redemptorist priest recalled an old Augustinian telling him of a miraculous picture in their chapel that had always been venerated in old St. Matthew’s.

The Redemptorists petitioned Pope Pius IX to have the image placed in the church on the spot chosen by Our Lady herself. The pope granted the request, telling the Redemptorists to “make her known” all over the world.

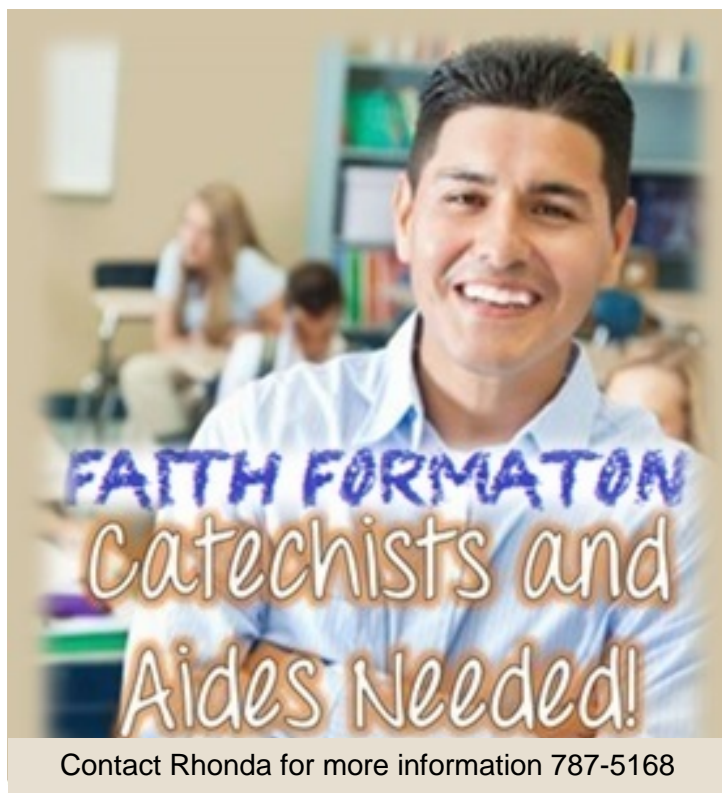

On April 26, 1866, a solemn procession carried the miraculous Madonna to her chosen spot in the Church of St. Alphonsus, one of Mary’s greatest defenders. Today the original painting reposes in Rome while millions of replicas bring her and her perpetual help to people everywhere.

In Christ, Fr. Andrzej

Year of the EUCHARIST

There are four significant moments in the Mass when we are asked to listen to God the Father speaking to us in his Son Jesus. The first moment is in the Penitential Rite at the beginning of the Mass. We are asked to reflect upon our sinfulness, acknowledging our sins, and to open ourselves to the mercy God the Father wants to give us. The second moment is before the Opening Prayer of the Mass where we call to mind our own needs, to "collect" our intentions. That is why this prayer is called the Collect. Thirdly, following each scripture readings, we are invited to allow God to touch our hearts in the silence, to allow His words just spoken to sink deeper into us. We are also invited into a longer period of silence after the homily, allowing Jesus to speak to us through the words of the priest who has just broken open the Word of God and how it applies to our lives. Finally, we are invited to be silent after communion so that Jesus who is present within us can truly speak his words of love to our hungry hearts. This silence throughout the Mass is essential to our truly entering into the dialogue of Jesus and his loving Father.

Diocesan Social Justice Commission

"Blessed are those servants whom the master finds vigilant on his arrival." Last week our readings reminded us not to be overly attached to earthly goods. Today Jesus tells us to sell our belongings and give alms. But then what? We are to wait for the master! To be vigilant! And where better to vigilantly wait for the master, than with Our Lord in the Eucharist. During this Year of the Eucharist, let us spend our waiting before the tabernacle, before a monstrance when possible, and ask him "How are you calling me to serve your kingdom?" If we are to work for Justice, we must be rooted in the will of the master. For "social justice can be truly transformational only if it is sacramental." <https://onepeterfive.com/social-justice-catholic-not/>

Dear Lord,

We pray for victims of violence and their families, that they may experience our love and support and find comfort in your compassion and in the promise of eternal life.

We also hold in prayer all of the times that we have experienced harm, in any form.

Grant us the courage to seek out restorative encounters to bring about your vision of healing and unity that we, your people, may no longer be divided by the hurt we cause one another in our brokenness.

Help us practice forgiveness in the small things, so we may embody Your spirit of a more restorative justice in the big things. Amen
