“I will make you a light to the nations,
 that my salvation may reach to the ends of the earth.”

(Is 49:6)

Contemplation from Kelly¹

Today's first reading from the prophet Isaiah is called the Song of the Suffering Servant. It has been fulfilled by Jesus who is the suffering servant. As Jesus said of himself, he came to serve, not to be served (Mt 20:28). He brought salvation to all the nations by his suffering and death. This is why John the Baptist in the gospel likens Jesus to a lamb led to the slaughter: "Behold the Lamb of God who takes away the sin of the world" (Jn 1:29)—that is, Jesus, by his suffering and death freely and humbly accepted. In the second reading, Paul applies all of this to the Christians of his time at Corinth by declaring that they have all been called and consecrated to the same mission, to the same task, as Jesus himself: to be a holy people in Christ Jesus; to be a light to the nations so that God's salvation might reach to the ends of the earth.

Just as Paul applied the Scriptures to the people of his own times, so we must apply them to our own time—and there is no doubt that one of the most appropriate applications of today's Scriptures is to Martin Luther King Jr., whose birthday we celebrate on Monday. He certainly is one of the clearest contemporary examples of one who was called and consecrated to the same mission as Jesus. He was convinced that he had been called by God to commit himself completely to work against racism and segregation and to work for civil rights and social justice—and he single-mindedly did this as one who suffered in the service of his people. He was arrested and jailed and vilified and finally died on their behalf. He was indeed a contemporary suffering servant. He was truly a light that went far beyond our own national borders; he was a light to the nations, known literally to the ends of the earth.

In this context of seeing Martin Luther King as a modern fulfillment of today's Scriptures, what might these same Scriptures be saying to us—to all of us—about our contemporary call and consecration as Christians of our own time? Perhaps the answer to this question can be found in these strong, straightforward words of St. John Paul II to which we must give serious consideration over and over again. In his 1991 address to the Holy See's diplomatic corps, the pope said:

“The ‘needs of humanity’ today require that we proceed resolutely towards outlawing war completely and come to cultivate peace as a supreme good to which all programs and all strategies must be subordinated.”

Is this not what Martin Luther King preached and practiced in his campaign of absolute nonviolence? He wrote so powerfully in his autobiography:

“Nonviolence in the truest sense is not a strategy that one uses simply because it is expedient at the moment. Nonviolence is ultimately a way of life that people live by because of the sheer morality of its claim.”

Is this not perhaps something very specific to which we are being called in this current age? Is this not perhaps what the modern Christian conscience is slowly coming to hear: a call, a consecration, a commitment to a positive pacifism that abhors all division and war an active nonviolence that bespeaks only unity and peace? Indeed, the example of Martin Luther King clearly shows us that Scripture still speaks to our contemporary society today.

¹Homily by Fr. Edward J. Kelly, S.S.Sp., 14 January 1996, Our Lady Queen of Peace Parish, Arlington, Virginia.

Introduction of the Homilies on the Eucharistic Prayer – The Eucharistic Prayer is the summit of the whole Mass. In the next six weeks of Ordinary Time, the priest will be offering an in-depth look at the Eucharistic Prayer. The hope is that we can then more fully comprehend what is happening and more fully enter this encounter with the Jesus that Jesus deeply desires for us. There are nine Eucharistic Prayers. Most often we pray I or III at Sunday Masses and occasional IV. Eucharistic Prayer II is prayed at daily mass and sometimes on Sundays. For these homilies we will focus on Eucharistic Prayer III.

Help us say Thank You!

AMAZING CATECHISTS

Did you know we have over 50 catechists in our parish who help you and your family grows in faith from Baptism to adulthood?! These wonderful people sacrifice more than just a couple hours a week to lead a class. They often use their own money and resources to supplement their classrooms, and classes; and spend additional time studying and preparing for classes each week. This is an amazing gift they give of themselves to all of us in this parish. As a way of saying thank you - we like to treat them to a lovely dinner where they spend time together in fellowship with each other. Please help us host them for a lovely dinner and fellowship. Share YOUR Faith

Support the Collection for the Church in Latin America

Dear Brothers and Sisters in Christ,

Soon, our diocese will take up the national Collection for the Church in Latin America. The collection helps to share the faith in regions like the mountainous Andahuaylas Province of Peru, where most of the people of the Talavera District speak Quechua. To better minister to these people, the parish of Santiago Apostol led a project to prepare Quechua-language audiovisual materials about evangelization and Sacred Scripture. The parish also created digital materials and furnished a room to serve as a library to hold these and other resources.

Support from the Collection for the Church in Latin America helped cover the necessary costs of the project—allowing the first series of materials to be created in June 2018. By supporting this collection, you help share the faith more fully with underserved indigenous peoples in remote areas of Latin America.

Our diocese takes up this collection the weekend of January 25-26. Please be generous toward this collection. Take this opportunity to share your faith with our sisters and brothers in Latin America and the Caribbean. Your support truly makes a difference. Thank you and God bless you.

Thank you and God bless you.

Sincerely yours in the love of Christ,

Very Rev. Michel Mulloy
Diocesan Administrator
