Reflection: Throughout his ministry, Jesus gave life to those in need. Early on, it was to people who were ill or possessed by demons, freeing them from conditions that worsened or shattered their lives. He cured lepers, restoring them to life in society. He forgave the woman caught in adultery, saving her life. He raised Jairus's daughter, thought to be dead, and Lazarus, already entombed. Finally, he sacrificed his own life, saving us from the permanency of death when he was raised to eternal life. Therefore, we can rejoice, for in Jesus we have a Savior who offers us the fullness of life, both now and forever.

Realize that Thomas, who saw Jesus perform miracles, saw him raise Lazarus from the dead, and heard him testify that he would be put to death but be raised on the third day, still doubted that the other apostles had seen him in the flesh, risen to new life. How much more are we susceptible to such doubts! When we suffer from grief, as surely Thomas did as well, we find it difficult to hold on to hope.

But it is at this time that we most need it. May our faith, the faith of those close to us, and the faith of those who gather here today in his name restore in us our hope in the Resurrection, which is our ultimate consolation in the face of death.

We are all members of the communion of saints, joined by all those who have died in the faith and await that ultimate unity with God, along with the saints who are already with God. That communion not only spans space and time, it also spans life and death itself. Our parish community and all who have ever been part of it are an example of that communion. We are joined with an ever-growing communion of saints. May that console us as we remember those we have lost, for they live on in our communion as we all await our heavenly reward.

Questions of the Week: Who do I remember in a special way today? Throughout this coming week, can I commit to unite myself with them in prayer?

Pope Leo XIV's Prayer Intention for November

For the prevention of suicide.

Let us pray that those who are struggling with suicidal thoughts might find the support, care, and love they need in their community, and be open to the beauty of life.

This month's devotion is for the poor souls in Purgatory.

The symbols in this week's front page image are associated with "Memento mori." Memento Mori means "remember that you must die." Its purpose is to inspire a virtuous life in preparation for the afterlife. The hourglass symbolizes the swift passage of time and the limited nature of human life. The extinguished candle symbolizes the shortness of life.
