The feast of Easter is the celebration of Jesus' victory over death and mankind's hope for eternal life. This feast gives us the hope of our own Resurrection and at the same time keeps us united with the living Christ who has promised to be with us. The theme of today's Mass includes both proclamation and witness. St Paul tells us that if Jesus is not risen from the dead, our faith will be in vain.

In the Gospel of the day Mary Magdalene is asked to go and proclaim the Resurrection to all. To the Disciples the Resurrection of Jesus was something new and unexpected. It was a total transformation and it gave them a new vision of life. They had been witnesses of his suffering and death and during that time they had remained hidden out of fear. Their hope in Jesus was shattered. The resurrection brought about a complete turn around and they began boldly to proclaim that Jesus, who died on the Cross, was alive.

So our faith today must be an Easter faith and would not only end on Good Friday or in the Calvary, we must look forward for an Easter Sunday.

Liturgically, all feasts in the liturgical calendar revolve around the observance of Easter. Therefore, I can say that the glory of Easter is very much present in the resurrection of Christ, i.e. the triumph of light over darkness, the triumph of good over evil and the triumph of life over death.

This commemoration of the resurrection of Jesus provides us the answers to such questions as: What is the meaning of life? After suffering, what will happen next, suffering again? After death, would there be a hope of resurrection of eternal life? Would there be a change? Would there be a difference after the resurrection of Jesus?

Jesus by His resurrection is showing us that life is not at all meaningless. After suffering, there is still happiness. After death, there is still life. And, there is still significant effect of that great resurrection event because it has become the solid foundation of our hope and trust in God. But this Easter, hope does not mean we have to passively wait, but rather, it challenges us to make our world better here and now.

May we be moved and forever changed by the celebration of our Lord's passion, Death and Resurrection. A blessed Triduum and a Glorious Easter season to you and yours!

Donations can be dropped off at the school office.
