Mary, the Mother of Us All by Father Ward Stakem, OFM Cap.

In 2015 in a homily on Mary the Mother of God, Pope Francis said, “A society without mothers would [be] a society that has lost its heart, lost the ‘feel of home.’” Because mothers, even at the worst of times, can testify to tenderness, unconditional self-sacrifice, and the strength of hope. Where there is a mother, there is unity, there is belonging.”

Pope Francis spoke these words to honor all mothers, most especially Mary the Mother of God, a genuine woman and mother in every sense of those words.

All of us have a mother. We entered this world because of our mothers. They nurtured us and loved us and disciplined us as only a mother can. There are countless books, poems, and songs in the public domain that extol the wonder and strength and beauty of mothers. And yes, we do know of the failures that mothers have exhibited in not responding adequately to the expectations and needs of those whom they are mothers to. Yet as Pope Francis states: “even at the worst of times (mothers) can testify to tenderness, unconditional self-sacrifice, and the strength of hope.”

As with many things in life, we all too often fail to adequately appreciate someone until that person has passed from our sight. The passing of my mother in October of 2010 marked a significant moment for me in my life. My father had passed in 2003 so the passing of a parent was not new to me. Both experiences in their own manner were unique and profoundly meaningful to me.

My mother was very basic in her approach to life. She was a loving and faithful wife and a generous and loving mother attentive to her two daughters and five sons. Her time and her life were committed to her family in the manner that one would expect a good mother and wife to be. Her life was not marked with any outstanding awards or recognitions. And too often we did not appreciate the all that she did for us in so many quiet and hidden ways. Yet she did not cease or refuse to be our mother. She embraced her vocation though she did not use such terminology in describing her motherhood. One can truly say her actions clearly spoke louder than any words or explanations.

My brother in eulogizing our mother at her funeral made the profound and telling statement that she was a homemaker. She was a mother of her own time in history. Not working outside the home as many mothers today need to do. Rather, she worked consistently in the home being our homemaker. Mothers strive to do those things and often with little or no thanks or adequate compensation—monetary or otherwise. She was being a mother—facilitating unity and creating that sense of belonging for all of us.

Our Christian faith states that God did take upon himself in the Person of Jesus Christ, our human nature. Christ is one like us in all things as St. Paul so wonderfully describes this truth. This human nature, this flesh taken on was in the womb of Mary, His Mother, our Mother and the Mother of the Church. Mary would bring forth for us in the Person of Jesus Christ the One who would gain for us salvation. She would live her life as a genuine woman and most moving mother in every sense of those words—truly blessed among all women.

So Long, Marcie!

Marcie Parks has directed our Preschool program for the last three years. Marcie also is an online math teacher for Imagine Learning. She has decided to pursue the math teaching as more of a full-time employment. Marcie will be leaving us the end of May. “Mrs. Parks,” her smile and gentle disposition are what we will remember and miss most. We wish Marcie every goodness in her new career and hope that she will visit the Preschool often. Thank you, Marcie, for loving our kids and kudos to you for bringing our Preschool to another level of learning.

(Note: Preschool Aide Amy Majersky will assume the position of Preschool Program Coordinator for the 2017-18 school year.)

Mother's Love

by Dolores Zimmerman

According to History.com, Mother's Day in America originated from the love and admiration of a daughter for her mother. In 1908, Anna Jarvis was determined to honor her mother Ann Reeves Jarvis (who died in 1905) and all mothers for the sacrifices made for their children. To this end, she secured financial backing from a Philadelphia department store owner named John Wanamaker. In May 1908, she organized the first official Mother's Day celebration at a Methodist church in Grafton, WV. Following that success, she started a letter writing campaign to newspapers and prominent politicians urging the adoption of a special day honoring motherhood. By 1912, many states, towns, and churches had adopted Mother's Day as an annual holiday, and Jarvis established the Mother's Day International Association to help promote her cause. Persistence paid off and in 1914, President Woodrow Wilson signed a measure officially establishing the second Sunday in May as Mother's Day.

During Lent, we recount our Blessed Mother's heartbreak at seeing her son suffer in agony to redeem all of mankind. What a sacrifice! We admire her steadfastness at the foot of the cross as Christ expired. Then, on Easter, we identify with this Mother of Sorrows, who experienced the exhilarating joy at witnessing our Savior, her son, in his resurrection from the dead.

If today the child Jesus were to give his mother a gift, what do you think it might be? There are so many options because we live in a commercialized world! My guess is that while flowers, candy, dinner, and gifts are appreciated what a mother remembers most is the time spent together-- stories told, pictures shared, laughter at funny happenings of times past and new ones just created. Sometimes healing tears are shared also! However you spend your holiday, know that Jesus and his mother would love to be there right in the middle of it. Invite them and you will be amazed! Happy Mother's Day!

The Catholic Faith is rich with wonderful prayers, customs, and traditions. There is nothing wrong with traditions. I'm sure many families have holiday traditions and family traditions. Additionally, we are instructed to (2 Thes 2:15), "hold fast to the teachings we passed on to you, whether by word of mouth or by letter." Furthermore, 2 Thes. 3:6 states, "according to the tradition which you received from us." The Bible was not yet put together, so the teachings passed on by word of mouth are in fact Christian traditions.

God is NOT Missing! - Fr. Scott Seethaler by Barbara Amy

We live in stressful times. But if we believe there is a God, that God is involved in our lives day-to-day, and that God answers prayers, then we will know that God is NOT Missing! Capuchin Friar Scott Seethaler, who presented a Holy Week Renewal for St. Joseph's and St. Mary's, opened the week by asking us to make this Act of Faith and Daring us to Believe in Miracles. Those of you lucky enough to experience Fr. Scott's talks during Holy Week were inspired by his words, made to think, raised your voice in song, and especially laughed! How I would love to start this article out with one of his jokes, but Fr. Scott made me laugh so much that I wouldn't do justice to any of them. Instead, I would like to share with all of you—especially those of you not able to attend all four talks—some of his wisdom and insight by highlighting some of the thoughts he shared with us.

Atheists are out to say that creation is a “big bang theory”; they say how not why the world was made. The world was made so we can experience God personally; he is NOT missing! God gives us peace the world can't give; thus “Holy” vs. “Hell” of a Week! Mystery vs. Magic? God is available to us, and we make ourselves available to God. Faith is based on miracles. Look at the miracle of the Triduum. We see what we want to see. Remember, Christianity is not caught, it is taught! It is not a spectator sport; it is a total commitment. What's the payoff? It is intimacy with God here and hereafter. Remember, if you can't find Jesus in your heart, you can't find him in church.

🎵 My soul is longing for your peace; near to you my God. 🎵

Forgiveness & Reconciliation—Are they the same?

Forgiveness has three definitions: (1) forgiveness is not a thing; forgiveness is a person named Jesus (we receive through the sacraments); (2) forgiveness is not forgetting; it is letting go of the pain; (3) forgiveness is giving up my need for a perfect past. Holy Week is homecoming in the Catholic Church. Fr. Scott asked us to remember that “one goal of the devil is despair.” Any time we approach God with sincere sorrow, we are forgiven. Forgiveness is a person named Jesus.

Besides forgiving ourselves, we need to forgive those who hurt us. Don't let others have that power over you. If you do, then you will have revenge. We forgive for our sake; we forgive for Christ's sake. Fr. Scott gave a great insight to how Christ is shown on the cross. His head is bent to kiss us; his arms are out to hold us! “Don't be a doormat to anyone's abuse; Jesus died to set us free.” Forgiveness involves the past. Reconciliation involves the future. When a person expresses remorse, accepts responsibility, and does something to improve, he is asking for reconciliation. We should start our reconciliation by praying for them—even our enemies! We end relationships by lack of forgiveness.

🎵 Let there be peace on Earth and let it begin with me. 🎵

The Heart Renewed

“LENT: Let's Eliminate Negative Thinking” LENT is about giving in not giving up! On Tuesday of Holy Week, Fr. Scott had us all laughing so hard with examples for each of the following, but I will be serious and highlight the kind of heart we need for every decade of our life.

- Age 1-10 years: A thankful heart as we start our spiritual journey; this doesn't come naturally folks!
- Age 11-20 years: A generous heart; we need to mentor.
- Age 21-30 years: A loving heart. Don't confuse love and infatuation. We need to sacrifice to make holy; this is needed in marriages especially.
- Age 31-40 years: A faithful heart—especially being faithful to each other in marriage.
- Age 41-50 years: An understanding heart. We can't get a degree in parenting; instead, wisdom comes by understanding the way God works, especially through His patience. Remember, the word discipline comes from disciple—ask what can I teach them!
- Age 51-60 years: A forgiving heart. If you haven't been able to forgive by 60—well, let's hope you have! But first, you have to forgive yourself.
- Age 61-70 years: A joyful heart. Our children need to see happy parents.
- Age 70+ years: A trusting heart. We have been building towards this over the years. H-E-A-V-E-N is how Christians spell RELIEF! This age group is on the threshold of heaven. Don't fear it.

During Holy Week, we get Jesus' heart; His help in this crazy world.

🎵 All I ask of you is forever to remember me as loving you. 🎵

Love Wins in the End

Every night we get bombarded about the stressful times we are living in. Cable TV news is always in our face! Despair and cynicism are two negative views for seniors; lust for the young. But is the final outcome still in question? No, God is on the throne. The devil does not know the future. Easter is coming—we won! Earth is our gymnasium; heaven is our home. We leave here with hope not despair! If you believe in Easter, life is worth living. We are on the cusp of a new Pentecost.

🎵 Love is flowing like a river . . . flowing out of you and me. 🎵

Fr. Scott asked us to remember that Christianity is not a part-time job; it is a full-time vocation. He ended his inspirational Holy Week Renewal by indicating he had three goals: to inspire us, to make us think, and to make us laugh! “If someone says, how are you doing? You answer: I'm blessed!” Fr. Scott—WE were blessed! Thank you!

Nite at the Races 2017

A great time was had by all at the February 25th Nite at the Races. There were some 200 parishioners and friends in attendance. Caller Jason Christopher kept the evening moving. Each race brought us closer to the final and biggest race- the Auction Horse Race. The 50-50 raffle and the Envelope Game were big hits. Thanks to all who donated items for the basket raffle. The nine baskets were quite a display. Thanks to all who participated and helped in any way. A big note of gratitude to our Knights of Columbus who provided the beer and sodas and bartended. The profits of the race will be used for short-term fellowship events, the purchase of stands and other needed Liturgical items, additional round tables for the hall, a donation to the Prayer Blanket Ministry and general improvements. The 2018 Nite at the Races will be held on Saturday, February 10. Mark your calendar and Giddy Up!

Preschool Registration by Marcie Parks

Attention Parents: If your child will be age three by September but you are not sure if he/she is quite "ready" for preschool, please feel free to talk it over with one of the teachers. It is important to make sure that your child has a spot in our fall class.

St. Joseph Preschool is now registering students for the 2017-2018 school year, which begins in September. Preschool offers valuable academic and social opportunities to prepare your child for kindergarten. We create an environment that will help your children to thrive and grow, in a caring and enthusiastic community of learners. Our program fosters development of language, early literacy and math skills, fine motor skills, and much more.

Our Preschool (3-yr-old) class meets Tuesdays and Thursdays 9:00-11:30 a.m.

Our Pre-K (4-yr-old) class meets three times per week: Mondays and Wednesdays 9:00-11:30, and Tuesday afternoons from 12:30-3:00. There is limited space available for this class.

Please call now to reserve a place for your child. We would be happy to schedule a time for you to come in and see the Preschool with your whole family. Please call Marcie Parks at 724-355-0256 or Amy Majersky at 724-816-0946.

Good Shepherd

by Kathy Lawton & Lynne Bird

May 13, 2017: 100TH Anniversary of Our Lady's apparitions in Fatima, Portugal. She appeared in 1917 --- in six consecutive months -- to three YOUNG SHEPHERDS, Lucia Santos and siblings, Francisco and Jacinta Marto. The CHILDREN were asked to offer sacrifices and prayers for the conversion of sinners. She asked them to say the Rosary each day to help bring peace to the world being ravaged by World War I. There was nothing that would deter the children from sacrificing for sinners and spreading the Blessed Mother's message, which consistently called for prayer and repentance.

Through the Grace of God, we are completing the seventh year of providing a religious foundation for our young children (ages 3-9) through the Catechesis of the Good Shepherd curriculum within the Holy Atrium environments (Level I and II). We strive for the children to have an early understanding of His Word (directly from the Bible) and our Catholic Faith (with an emphasis on the Mass).

The following topics were presented since our last reporting: The vestments of the Priest; geography of the Land of Israel; Messianic Prophecies of Advent; Infancy Narratives; preparation of the cruets; Epiclesis; Offering; Lavabo; The Mystery of Life and Death---Parables of the Kingdom of God; The Eucharist---Parable of the Good Shepherd; Baptism; and The Liturgy of the Light with the blessing of the Paschal Candle. We will close our year with a Pentecost Celebration! Practical life work related to each topic is always provided to encourage reflection, prayer, and a personal connection with God.

Our primary goal is to allow young children to see who God really is and watch Him draw them close as His true followers. When children come to understand and love God early on, they will be equipped with what is necessary to live a spiritually moral life filled with strong Christian virtues listening to God's calling. The hope for our future is the next generation of true believers fulfilling God's purpose for them!

How can you continue your child's spiritual GROWTH over the summer?

- Talk about the Mass after attending and discuss the positive influence it has on you.
- Have daily religious conversations with your child emphasizing praise and thanksgiving to God.
- Discuss with your child how God helped you handle your daily struggles in a Christian manner.

- Emphasize the importance of a quiet place and quiet time at home to be with God. These moments of silence are prayer as well: Silence is praise to you, O God! (Psalm 65:1). Silence is a deeper stilling of the body, heart, and mind so as to listen and to open oneself more fully to God: Be still, and know that I am God (Psalm 46:10).
- Encourage family prayer time; especially reading from the Bible, reciting the Rosary and watching EWTN (Global Catholic Network). We will be providing each child a holy card to share and pray together as well.
- Volunteer to do community service as a family. Allow a child to share their faith, to witness, to serve and to walk the way that Christ walked!

Please know that we understand how busy everyone is. The purpose is to show a child the importance of a strong spiritual relationship with God in our DAILY lives and how He should guide, influence, and be a part of EVERYTHING we do. It is easy to complain about what the world is like today, or we can listen to God's demand to take responsibility for changing it ourselves and through our children that have young pliable hearts and the role they play in the future of true Christianity.

We would like to thank everyone who has volunteered for the CGS Program this year. We greatly appreciate that you listened to the Holy Spirit calling you to assist! Volunteers are always needed. Have a blessed summer through Christ our Lord, Amen.

Increased Understanding of the Bible

by Marian Goetz

St. Joseph Adult Faith Formation works to add to your understanding of the truths of the Catholic faith and present programs that will add value and meaning to your life and enhance your personal relationship with Christ. Here is a brief recap of what was offered this year.

We began the year with a brief study of the Gospel of Luke on Wednesday evening. Instead of covering the entire Gospel, participants came together to meditate on some of the key stories. It was a small but mighty group. The second half of the year we concentrated on the Bible timeline learning the big picture that ties all 73 books of the Bible together. We had a large number that participated in this session and participants learned valuable tools for approaching and reading the Bible on their own. A smaller group decided to keep the learning going by following up with a study on the Bible and its relationship with the Mass. As one participant stated, "Every parishioner needs to participate in this study." It really gives meaning to what we say and do in the sacred Liturgy.

In addition, we continued our Thursday morning group by finishing a study of the book of Isaiah. It was not easy, but it really increased our understanding when we heard readings from this book in Mass. We also had a study on the Sunday readings both for advent and for lent.

Jean Hlivko- Neely presented the parish with The Bible and the Church Fathers. The study explained the significance of our Fathers in faith and highlighted a few Fathers and their teachings. We were blessed to have new members join us and to add a duplicate session on Wednesday morning.

Currently, we have the Biblical Journey through the Mass being offered on Wednesday evenings, the book of Ruth on Wednesday morning. Also, As by a New Pentecost, on Thursday mornings; this series teaches us about the Holy Spirit and seeks to renew our relationship with God through the third person of the Trinity.

Please call or email the Adult Faith Formation Office at 724-352-3443 or sjaff@zoominternet.net with any suggestions on topics or times for next fall. We seek to aid you in your understanding of the faith by offering a wide variety of topics, times and lengths of study from one-time events, to short studies and longer more in-depth studies as well as offering spiritual enrichment.

The Divine Mercy Message and Devotion

by Marian Goetz

The message of The Divine Mercy is simple. It is that God loves us, all of us. And, he wants us to recognize that His mercy is greater than our sins, so that we will call upon Him with trust, receive His mercy, and let it flow through us to others. Thus all will come to share His joy. The Divine Mercy message is one we can call to mind simply by remembering ABC:

A - Ask for His Mercy. God wants us to approach Him in prayer constantly, repenting of our sins and asking Him to pour His mercy out upon us and upon the whole world.

B - Be merciful. God wants us to receive His mercy and let it flow through us to others. He wants us to extend love and forgiveness to others just as He does to us.

C - Completely trust in Jesus. God wants us to know that the graces of His mercy are dependent upon our trust. The more we trust in Jesus, the more we will receive.

This message and devotion to Jesus as The Divine Mercy is based on the writings of Saint Faustina Kowalska, an uneducated Polish nun who, in obedience to her spiritual director, wrote a diary of about 600 pages recording the revelations she received about God's mercy. Even before her death in 1938, the devotion to The Divine Mercy had begun to spread.

Bishop Fulton Sheen Said . . .

by Ron Ekas

Bishop Sheen has stated that, "There are fewer than two hundred individuals who hate the Catholic Church while there are millions who hate what they mistakenly believe to be the Catholic Church."

From my own experience, I know how true this is. While I never hated the Catholic Church, I did believe that it was much too encumbered with traditions, rites and rituals, too shrouded in mystery and yes, it had what I believed, too many requirements. It was just strange to me. Raised as a Lutheran, I am sure that I was subtly influenced to think this way. It was a different time then.

As a new Catholic, I now know and understand that our rites, rituals and traditions come directly from Christ, the scriptures, and holy tradition. I find beauty and comfort in our Mass, and I delight in the sacred reverence our priests show while conducting the Mass.

I often wonder why Catholics leave the Church. Perhaps it is because being a good Catholic is hard. Being a Protestant seems easier, since one is saved by faith alone. One must simply believe and ask for forgiveness. Catholics believe this also, but we have more requirements than just these two. Now, when I hear someone say something disparaging about Catholics, I remember Bishop Sheen's comment. I also remember that Matthew Kelly makes the point that the Catholic Church feeds more people, clothes more people, and shelters more people than any other organization in the world. How great is that? Be Bold, Be Catholic.

Thank God for Believers

by Ron Ekas

Last year, Suzanne and I made our way south towards Florida taking note of the myriad of churches along the rural roads we traveled. Often, in the distance of about a mile, we would see two, three or even four Christian churches, many of the same denomination. Their titles were frequently similar. One would be called the First Baptist and the next would be the New Baptist, and so on. In very rural areas, there was a plethora of churches with names such as the First Assembly of God, or the Church of the Living Waters, or the Missionary Lighthouse Temple.

Some of these had to have spun off from others nearby. Had they spun off over differences in doctrine, or dogma, or for arguments among the parishioners? I thought about the Reformation and its effect on Christianity and how there are over 25,000 different Christian denominations in the U.S. What a staggering statistic!

I know that our Catholic Church is the one true Church as founded by Christ, but no matter their denominations, these other Christians are our Brothers and Sisters in Christ and we need to love and appreciate them.

I thank God that we live in a country filled with so many Christians. "Humility is not about thinking less of your self, but thinking about your self less."

Parents Night Out/Kids Night In

by Stephanie Karwoski

Parents Night Out took place on Friday, February 17. There were around 30 kids that enjoyed crafts, games, cookie decorating, movie night and delicious pizza while their parents enjoyed a night out on the town! Thanks to Father Ward for stopping in and spending time with the children; to Karyn Roenigk for donating popcorn; to St. Joe's parish for donating pizza; and especially to the teenage volunteers (Mallory Griffiths, Mary Kate Cornetti, and Bri Tetley) for help making the night successful. Fun was had by all! (Pictures on Page 10)

Church Chat: Imaginations

by the "Church Lady"

Imaginations— we all have one! My imagination has had a full-time job from the get go. Even as a little girl, my imagination took on the form of my “invisible friend,” Catherine.” I was a rather inquisitive, active child, always wanting to explore and know more about the simplest of things. My dad would tell me that my actions could surely get me sold to the gypsies. One day I imagined that if I sprinkled talcum powder in my dad’s black sock drawer that the powder would act like magic dust and turn the socks into gold. Neither my dad nor my mom saw it quite that way nor did they believe that it was “Catherine” who did the sprinkling. Oh yes, my bottom felt the smack of my mom’s yard stick. I guess not being sold to the gypsies that day was the only magic that happened to me.

Growing up on Second Street was great— the kids were plenty and the fun was nonstop. There were gardeners and growers of all kinds and much to be amazed by. The Gardina’s grapevines were more than productive and the famous “Gardina Wine” was shared throughout the neighborhood. My friend Billy and I would snatch a few of those luscious grape clusters and when asked if we had eaten any of the forbidden fruit, the grape stains on our lips quickly gave our secret away. One particular summer our appetites for those grapes came long before the grapes were “ready.” My imagination suggested that we put the grapes in big jars and add vinegar to the jars. My dad always said that a little vinegar was good for whatever you needed. Billy and I picked enough grapes to fill maybe 10 gallon glass jars. We added vinegar and set the jars in the sun. Well after a few days, the vinegar fermented the grapes and blew the lids off the jars. There were green bullets flying all over the yard. Needless to say, we came very close to being sold to the gypsies that day.

Imaginations— we all have one. You know as I get older, my imagination seems to work overtime. I’ve imagined that I’ve won the lottery at least a million times and then imagined what I would do with the winnings. I’ve imagined having every pair of shoes that’s ever caught my eye. I’ve imagined what it would be like to conduct an orchestra and I’ve imagined being the player who catches the ball in the end zone for the win. I often imagine that I am skinny again. And you know when I look in the mirror my imagination lets me see a thin, tall, tan, 18-year old Church Lady ready for anything. I think that the Lord knew that our imaginations would provide an escape from the reality of growing older.

I imagine that the hard-to-notice and impossible-to-miss changes in my physical self-belong to someone else. This allows for a little denial of the transformation from active to aching, from brunette to Miss Clairol, from stilettoes to soft walkers and the truth that reading glasses and wrinkles are here to stay.

Imaginations— we all have one. Right now, I am imagining that I am wearing a pair of red stilettoes, enjoying a glass of that Gardina Wine while writing a Nobel-Prize-winning article. Imaginations— we all have one!
